

The Three Different Fish

Three fish live together in a lake. Although the three are together, all of them are very unique. They have contrasting characters and argue over small things. Still, they are happy.

The first fish always dwells in the past and is very lazy. The fish doesn't believe in preparing for the future. Therefore, the phrase 'Prevention is better than cure.' can never be used to describe the first fish!

The second fish lives for the present. It is a little bit wise and tends to make some good decisions at the very last minute.

The third fish is an intelligent one. It usually thinks a lot, makes the decision wisely and always carries smart and interesting ideas to live happily and safely.

One day, as the three were playing in the lake, the third fish heard two fishermen talking about fishing. The fish asked the other two fish to hear what they said.

The first man said, "I heard about this lake. It has some big fish. Why don't we enjoy our time here?"

The second man replied, "Yeah, that's a good idea. I love to cook and eat fresh fish. We'll make it here tomorrow at noon!" And they left.

The third fish told the other two fish, "See? They are planning to catch us. We should go to some other places to stay safe. I've already found a route that will lead us to the nearby canal and thereafter into a new lake."

The second fish said, "Yeah, I heard them, too. But they may not return or may end up fishing at a distant place. We can think about it tomorrow when we see them."

The first fish said, "Oh, let's just ignore it and have some rest now!"

The third fish, the intelligent one, moved to the nearby lake through the secret way alone as the other two fish refused to move.

The next day, the two fishermen arrived. The second fish saw them fishing so it planned for an escape. As it got caught in the fishing net, it tried to act as if it was dead. The fishermen threw it back into the lake and it managed to escape successfully.

The first fish, the lazy one, had no idea about the presence of the fishermen. Very soon it was caught and before it could think about how to escape, it was put into the basket and lost its life in a few minutes.
